

Getting a parish to grow and then transform a culture is no easy task. There are hundreds of small steps that go into successful evangelization. Parishes that have transformed themselves into hubs of vibrant ministry know that successful ministry requires planning, organization and professional support to reach its goals. It takes ministers with skills in creating realistic plans, attracting the right people and passing on the wrong people, focused communication, plus the managerial skills to achieve their goals. It takes a professional approach that combines intent and vision with training and coaching to help those ministers succeed.

Yet we often fail to provide our parish leaders with the resources they need to be successful.

Training from Parish Success Group distills those real world lessons into practical skills and solutions delivered in hands-on training sessions your parish ministers can immediately use to build great teams and great ministries.
